DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I, claims 1-20 in the reply filed on 14 May 2007 is acknowledged.
2. Claims 21-30 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 14 May 2007.

Priority

3. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yagi (JP 11-263004 A).

Art Unit: 1732

Yagi (see the entire document, in particular, the English-language translation, especially paragraph [0033]) teaches a three-dimensional image forming process as set forth in the instant claims. Yagi does not explicitly teach the aspects regarding the step of acquiring first height information; however, these aspects are inherent in Yagi principally because Yagi teaches controlling the amount of material added to the object (during the lamination stage) by using generally known "gradation technology" , which involves adjusting the degree of irregularities (e.g., surface features of the object, due to height differences or undulations) in the object and adjusting the amount of material added to the object.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yagi (JP 11-263004 A) in combination with

Art Unit: 1732

Zhang et al (U.S. Patent Application Publication 2002/0113331 A1).

Yagi (see the entire document, in particular, the English-language translation, especially paragraph [0033]) teaches a three-dimensional image forming process as set forth in the instant claims, except that Yagi does not explicitly teach the aspects regarding the step of acquiring first height information (Yagi teaches controlling the amount of material added to the object (during the lamination stage) by using generally known "gradation technology" , which involves adjusting the degree of irregularities (e.g., surface features of the object, due to height differences or undulations) in the object and adjusting the amount of material added to the object), which is taught by Zhang et al (see the entire document, in particular, paragraph [0073] wherein Zhang et al teaches using sensor means to periodically measure the dimensions of the object (such dimensions include height information and undulations) and to use the data during object manufacturing by a three-dimensional image forming process) and such would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made in the process of Yagi in view of Zhang et al principally in order to ensure more accurate dimensions in the final object.
